Introduction

Welcome

Welcome to the 2020 edition of the Pasda Guide to Services and Resources in Edinburgh and the Lothians, intended for parents and carers of autistic adults.

Supporting parents and carers of autistic adults

Autism is a lifelong developmental disability that affects how a person communicates with and relates to other people, and how they experience the world around them. However Autism which includes the diagnostic profiles of Asperger Syndrome and Pathological Demand Avoidance (PDA), is often masked, and compounded, by other conditions commonly associated with it such as: Anxiety, Attention Deficit Disorder, Dyscalculia, Dyspraxia, a Learning Disability, and a range of Mental Health issues. These associated conditions can often make it challenging to accurately diagnose autism in childhood, which is why the average age of diagnosis in Scotland is currently at around 34 years of age.

Autism is a lot more common than most people think. The NHS and the National Autistic Society estimate that more than 1 in every 100 people in the UK are autistic. As awareness of autism increases and a diagnostic pathway is established, more people will be diagnosed as adults, and more families will find themselves in need of guidance and advice to support an autistic adult family member. This Guide is intended to help parents and carers to find the support services and resources they need to care for and improve the health and wellbeing of their autistic adult family member, and of the family as a whole.

Receiving a diagnosis of autism

Before receiving a diagnosis of autism, your family may have had a confusing, challenging time of managing one or more of your children through childhood, school, and complex relationships; perhaps also through college, jobs and more complex relationships. Along the way, you may have often felt uncertain, confused and even desperate about how to support and guide your child into adulthood. Now that your adult family member has been diagnosed as autistic, you may be feeling even more confused and bereft than before; or you might be feeling some kind of relief at having an explanation of what you have not been able to understand until now; or you might be experiencing a bit of both. Whatever you are feeling, you will need guidance and support to understand the diagnosis; what it means for your whole family; and how to plan for the future.

Who or what is a carer?

According to the NHS, a carer is anyone, including children and adults (family member, relative or friend) who looks after a family member, partner or friend who needs help because of their illness, frailty, disability, a mental health problem or an addiction and cannot cope without their support. The care they give is unpaid. So, even though you see yourself as a relative or friend to the autistic person you are caring for, you are also their carer.

Helping parents and carers to support their autistic family member and themselves

The purpose of this guide is to help you (parents and/or carers of autistic adults) to find the organisations, resources and information you need to support your autistic family member, yourself and your whole family to live meaningful and fulfilling lives.

We wish you well on your journey!

About Pasda

Who we are

Pasda is a Scottish Charitable Incorporated Organisation and is governed by Trustees.

Although there is growing awareness about autism, there is still a lack of understanding about what it means to live with an autistic person. The condition is invisible and is a way of thinking and living that is sometimes difficult to comprehend. Meeting other people in a similar situation is a huge benefit to many people when they feel they are not alone. The reason Pasda was established by a small group of parents in the 1990s was to share their knowledge, experience, challenges and successes with each other in similar circumstances, and hopefully to improve their lives.

Our name

Pasda was originally known as Parents of Autism Spectrum Disorder Adults with the acronym PASDA. Since then, knowledge has evolved and the term 'disorder' is no longer considered appropriate. We have also grown from a small group of parents to a much broader group of parents, relatives and friends. As a consequence of these two changes, we decided to change the acronym PASDA, to the word Pasda in lower case letters, because the word is already well known locally and directly associated with the new expanded organisation; is easy to pronounce; and it is less costly to retain than to register the organisation under a new name.

Our aims

Pasda aims to:

- Increase understanding of autism in adults in the wider community. This includes campaigning for services, providing information and creating opportunities for the exchange of knowledge.
- Provide information which helps parents and carers of autistic adults to access support services.
- Create forums which provide opportunities for parents and carers of autistic adults to support each other by exchanging information, experiences, challenges and successes.

What we do

Pasda offers advice and support to families caring for an autistic adult in Edinburgh and the Lothians. This includes:

- Providing this updated Guide to Services and Resources in Edinburgh and the Lothians
- Free support to parents and carers who have an adult family member who has been diagnosed with autism. This includes:
  - One-to-one consultation on receiving a diagnosis, support, reassurance and practical guidance
  - Advice about the support, benefits and services you can access
  - Directing you to organisations that can provide the support you need
  - Connecting you with our parent and carer social and educational support groups

Pasda also offers:

- 1) Monthly meetings which include information on available parent and carer support services, and provide an opportunity for parents and carers to discuss their own situation in a safe and welcoming environment.
- 2) Coffee mornings twice a month where parents and carers can meet others in a similar situation and share challenges, ideas and encouragement.
- 3) A singing group twice a month where you are warmly encouraged to come and sing for fun.

About Pasda

- 4) A monthly walking group that provides a social opportunity to share life experiences while enjoying relaxing walks to explore places of interest in and around the city.
- 5) A community gardening group where you can work socially, learn new skills, enjoy working outdoors or relax in the fresh air.
- 6) We also run monthly carer support groups in East Lothian and West Lothian.
- 7) Access to a library of Autism literature, DVDs, and aids e.g. squeeze vest.

For details on our activities, please visit our website at: www.pasda.org.uk, where you will find our monthly newsletters along with a monthly programme of activities.

Contact us

Please contact us if:

Important notes

Reliability of the information in this Guide

Every effort has been made to ensure that the information contained in this Guide was current and accurate at the time of printing, but organisations, the services they provide, and their contact details do change over time.

Disclaimer

This is not an exhaustive A-Z directory of services. The service providers included in this guide have been selected on the basis of the recommendations of people known to Pasda, or because their advertised services appear to match the needs of parents and carers of autistic adults. However, Pasda cannot guarantee that any service provider will deliver what they offer, or guarantee the quality of their services.

Accessing the services included in this Guide

Although most services listed in this guide are free of charge, some will require a donation, and others a standard fee. As far as possible, we have tried to indicate which services include a cost, and what the cost was at the time of printing the Guide. Where possible, we have also indicated which of these fees may be funded through your local authority.

Some services require appointments; some have a waiting list; some have specified drop-in times; and some are only available to those living in certain areas. Wherever possible, we have included the relevant information, but please use the contact details provided to check directly with the organisations for specific information about how to access their services.

Acknowledgements

Pasda would like to acknowledge the following volunteers for their significant contributions to the production of the 2019 version of this Guide:

- 1) The Guide Revision Committee: Susan Chambers, Chris Griffiths, Cath Purdie, Kirsten Mutch and David Langan
- 2) All of the Parents and Carers who proposed improvements incorporated into this version of the Guide in a consultative workshop facilitated by the Revision Committee on 13 February 2019, and through detailed notes submitted after the workshop.
- 3) The Editors who dedicated many hours to enhancing the quality of the final product: Roger Pountain, Dorothy Barbour and Ruth Mutch.

Thank you

If you are concerned that you, or an adult family member may be autistic, the only way to be sure is to get a diagnosis. Getting a diagnosis should be done by a specialist autism team; or a healthcare professional who specialises in diagnosing autism. You will need to see a GP and get a referral to a specialist autism team, a psychiatrist or clinical psychologist.

Receiving a diagnosis in your adult years can be a mixed experience. Many people feel an overwhelming sense of relief as they can finally put a name to all the difficulties they have been facing. Others feel sad that it has taken so many years to receive their diagnosis. We are a private practice. We offer autism assessments for adults. The cost per adult is £1,500.00. We also offer counselling support after diagnosis.

We offer free music therapy that brings people to life and helps to heal them. We run free individual music therapy sessions and social music therapy groups for adults with additional needs/learning disabilities, mothers and young children, older people and adults who want support with mental health, physical and medical needs. All sessions may include improvised music making, singing or playing instruments, and all offer a social music-making experience. No previous musical experience is needed. We also offer specialist music lessons for those who feel they will benefit from becoming musicians themselves.

Our counsellors support carers of people with disabilities and long-term mental or physical health issues. Our counselling services can help you to: explore your feelings and thoughts about your situation; look at how to deal with your feelings; explore your feelings about your relationship with the person you care for and others; explore how you might deal with things differently in the future. Our counsellors have a particular understanding of carers' needs and the difficulties they can experience. For carers living in Edinburgh or Midlothian, financial contributions are agreed at a level to suit your individual circumstances. Carers who live in any other local authority area will be able to access counselling at a cost of £20 per session.

“Your Call” is a free, national telephone counselling service available to disabled people who are 18 years of age or older. We will also work with immediate family members who are resident with a disabled person. Our counsellors are all disabled people themselves, providing them with an understanding of what it means to live as a disabled person. We will not judge, nor tell you how to live your life. We will help you to explore a your own situation and find your own way forward. Our counselling can help if you: are trying to come to terms with painful events from your past; need support through a current crisis or change in lifestyle; are struggling to manage difficult feelings such as depression or anxiety; or if you are seeking direction and meaning in your life.

Email: megaknee@yahoo.co.uk.

Website: www.health-in-mind.org.uk

We are an independent support group for adults aged 16 and over with diagnosed or suspected Asperger Syndrome or who are on the autistic spectrum. We aim to provide a community for autistic people to meet up, accept, value, and support one another and share ideas and coping strategies in order to promote self help and solidarity. The group aims to link with people from other autism groups, autism professionals and service providers and maintain contact with appropriate organisations. It also aims to improve services, facilities and conditions for autistic people by promoting autism awareness and providing input on autistic issues to government policy documents. We run formal meetings on the second Fridays at 6:30 in the Traverse theatre bar. Autistic adults, partners or friends are welcome to attend. If you are a newcomer, please let the Chair know by email. Our socials meetings are every Saturday evening, 6:00 - 9:00pm, either at Traverse theatre bar or Filmhouse bar: across Lothian Road from each other. The group is friendly and informal and members can attend for as long or as little time as they wish.

We run regular groups for autistic people aged 15 and over to provide opportunities to meet new people and have new experiences. The sessions are facilitated by a social programmes manager and a team of volunteers. The group members decide where they go and what activities they want to try. Joining a social group can help you to build confidence and learn new skills. For example, how to use public transport; use money wisely; socialise with people outside of your family, participate in the local community, make friends and develop social skills; and learn about personal presentation, healthy eating and being physically active. To apply to join a group, go to our website and complete the form on the ClickGo enquiry page. Some of our social programmes require a small annual payment. Please note that our social programmes are not suitable for those who do not have independent travel arrangements or who require personal care. Spaces on our programmes are limited – if your local group is full we'll add you to a waiting list.

We address the social isolation experienced by people with disabilities who want opportunities to find friendship and love in adult relationships. We believe that everyone has the right to love and friendship, and that meeting people should be easy, fun and accessible. So, we arrange social activities for people with disabilities in safe and friendly places in Edinburgh and the Lothians. Our members tell us what they're interested in – and that's what we do. From ping pong tournaments, to pantomimes, speed dating, dancing and meals out, karaoke, book groups, to life drawing, and everything in between!

We administer three assessments to determine the support needs of people with disabilities including autism, and their parent's/carer's needs:

1) Community Care Assessment

This determines whether an autistic person needs residential care, day care, help at home, home adaptation, holidays, transport and any related social work services.

2) Disabled Person's Assessment

This is necessary to determine the autistic person's possible other support needs.

3) Carer's Assessment

This is to determine the parent's/carer's needs in order to ensure that you can continue caring for your autistic family member. To know what to expect from the process, you can find the our Carers' Guide to Carer Assessments on our website.
